Fishing Facts and Fancies.

Some fishes will seize a fragment of food and shake it as a dog would shake a piece of meat. Most fishes propel themselves with their tail fins, and all use their tail fins for purposes of propulsion when they get in a hurry, but there are some fishes that going slow, row themselves along, so to speak, and back water as well, with their pectoral fins; and there are some fishes that propel themselves by a curious waving of the dorsal and anal fins.
